

Mallory is in her tenth year as THE social studies teacher at Lincoln Street Alternative High School, in Birmingham, MI. Her favorite classes to teach are U.S. History, Government, Native American Studies, Leadership and Senior Seminar. Her favorite part of her job is interacting with students. She has a firm believer that "students don't care what you know until they know that you care." Mallory has been a MAEO board member for nine years, co-chairing MAEO STARS (student branch), and is entering her second year as membership secretary.
